SUMMARY

As a web developer, I have acquired foundational and proficiency skills in ReactJS, NodeJS and Python and their related framework, despite my limited professional experience. Through professional work and personal projects, I've developed a solid understanding of these technologies and their application in website development.

With a passion for coding, a commitment to continuous growth and the curiosity of learning the intricacy of system infrastructure, I'm eager to contribute to a development team where I can apply my knowledge to practical use and expand my boundary under the guidance of senior developers.
